an them when they wheeled into position and then commenced one of the most terrific artillery fights I ever heard Under cover of this fire we had orders to fall back across the river which was done so quietly that the enemy never suspected we were going untill our pickets commenced falling back As soon as all were across we started for the right and arrived at the bridge about 9 o'clock where we laid over for the night Early the next morning we crossed over and took position on the Gardenville road just behind Gen Sykes division of regulars
