

Luis Lozano

Luis was born in Mexico City and grew up in Holland, MI. He is a third year majoring in Political Science and Sociology. He has been involved with Upward Bound (a college recruitment program for minorities in High school) in Holland, MI for the last year.

At the University of Michigan, he is now or has previously been involved with La Voz Latina, Latino College Visit, Latino Culture Show, Lambda Theta Phi Latin Fraternity Inc, AIESEC and now works at the Office of Admissions coordinating the Student Ambassador program.

Even though Luis keeps a busy schedule with everything that he is involved with, he still manages time to be a friend and confidant. His phone is constantly ringing with people wanting to go out or come over to hang out. He is what people may refer to as a "social butterfly". He can never sit still, unless he is sleeping! He loves to talk up a storm and usually ends up being the center of attention. His mannerisms are so contagious that if people are around him long enough, they start talking like him and making his facial expressions. This and so much more make up who Luis is.

Magali Padilla

Magali was a second year student majoring in Environmental Studies during the 2003-2004 academic school year. Although her involvements were in various campus-wide organizations she strove to be an unwavering voice in all of them. Some of the organizations specific to the Latino community, in which Magali played an integral role in, are La Voz Latina, Latino Task Force, Latino Culture Show, Latino College Visit, Assisting Latinos to Maximize Achievement, and Asociacion de Latinos Alcanzando Sueños.

In the two years that Magali was involved in these organizations she left a lasting impression which has continued to inspire many students. Unfortunately, Magali Padilla is no longer with us today. She and her mother tragically passed away in a car accident on June 23, 2004 while visiting family in Zacatecas, Mexico.
