White Privilege and Allyhood in Queer Communities

Angell G115

M

Presenters: Andrew McBride, University of Michigan; Ethan Blustein, University of Michigan

What do whiteness and race have to do with living and working in queer communities for justice and liberation? How do issues of privilege and allyhood come into the discussion? This interactive and participant-driven workshop will explore issues of white privilege and white allyhood in LGBTQ communities. Bring your experiences and curiosity to the table where we will discover and share strategies for confronting racism and white privilege in queer spaces.

We Love Gender & That's Why We F It!

Michigan League: Vandenberg Room

M

Presenters: Kaelen Medeiros, University of Michigan; A Popkey, University of Michigan; Ethan Blustein, University of Michigan; Charlie Gall, Wayne State University

Join Ann Arbor based gender performance troupe Drag King Rebellion as they (and participants!) share their stories and experiences with (or surrounding) "drag" and gender performance. We will discuss the cultural and personal significance of performing gender and explore what that means to different people. Ultimately, we will examine how every day, in many ways, every body does drag.

Challenging Barriers to Justice for Young Gay Black Men

Angell G127

Presenters: Alan Johnson, DePaul University; Darnell Motley, DePaul University; Kylon Hooks, DePaul University

This workshop will explore the difficulties of achieving justice for young gay Black men, with a focus on the inclusion of their voices in larger conversations that affect their lives. The workshop will use action planning in small groups in order to develop ideas of how to tackle barriers to justice for these youth. The group will then reconvene to share their ideas and engage in dialogue about how these action plans can be implemented.

Strangers in the Eyes of the Law- Michigan Law and Its Failure to Recognize LGBT Families

Michigan Union: Wolverine ABC

Presenters: Jay Kaplan, American Civil Liberties Union of Michigan

This workshop will discuss the breadth and reach of Michigan's constitutional amendment as interpreted by Michigan's Supreme Court, which effectively denies the existence of LGBT families. We will also discuss how courts in limiting joint adoptions to married couples, is depriving children of LGBT parents the legal protection of both parents, putting them at risk and rendering their families unstable. We will discuss what public policy changes need to happen in order to protect LGBT children.
