I came across the attached article while surfing the net and I am very concerned about this type of situation occurring throughout the US. It is about an illegal alien from Mexico using someone's ssn to get employment. Even though they are possibly going to charge him, they say that if his children were born in the US then he may be allowed to stay. I really don't understand how an illegal alien can have their children born here so they can gain citizenship themselves. If they are illegal, then their children should also be illegal, no matter where they are born. What is wrong with our country that our leaders are so willing to give away everything we have. It would be cheaper to send help to them in their own countries and let them improve their own situations. I don't mean by making them legal aliens either. Send them back to their own country and let them go through the process legally. Our leaders must find a way to protect us from those who come to our country illegally and proceed to bleed our system so it is unable to support US citizens, or create a cost so high that we cannot meet it. Are you doing anything to help stop the illegal alien problem in our country?
