Toxic

April 24, 2008

Dear Representative Knollenberg,

I am concerned about the increasing incidences of toxic products being imported to the United States. Unfortunately, it appears that more and more of our corporations are putting profit above consumer safety. In addition, the use of cheaper foreign laborers is eroding the fabric that made the United States great.

I am hoping that as a government official, you will work toward developing a trade system that does not allow such dangerous imports into our homes. There appears to be no accountability in the corporate world responsible for these occurrences. I sincerely hope it does not take a major health crisis involving our children and families before action is taken.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Nancy Groves
